language of business.*

WARREN BUFFETT

What did your last closing cost you?

Not the split. Everything. If you don't know, you don't know what a lead is worth.

FOUNDATIONS

THE BUSINESS FOUNDATIONS SERIES

Week 3 of 3 · Know Your Numbers. Books that run themselves, and the three reports you actually read.

WEEK 1 · DONE

GET STRUCTURED

LLC filed. EIN in hand.
Broker told.

WEEK 2 · DONE

GET PAID FIRST

Five accounts open.
First allocation run.

WEEK 3 · TODAY

KNOW YOUR NUMBERS

Books that run themselves.
The P&L you actually read.

STRUCTURED · BANKED · TODAY: BOOKED

The accounts hold the money. The books tell you what the money is doing.

FOR YOU. FOR THIS ROOM.

You can't fix what you can't see.

- 1 No books means you overpay. Every deduction you can't document in April is one you don't take.
- 2 Every decision is a guess. Which lead source pays? Can you afford the assistant? Should you elect S corp? All of it needs one number.
- 3 Everyone who matters asks for a P&L. Your CPA. Your lender. The person who buys your book of business one day.

Forty-five minutes a month. That is the entire cost of knowing.

WHAT MOST OF THE ROOM DOES TODAY

Twelve months of business, rebuilt in one weekend in April.

A tax return tells the IRS what happened. It never told you anything in time to act on it.

One tool. Every account connected.

THE SUGGESTION

QuickBooks Online

Plan: Simple Start, about $38 a month. Bank feeds, reconciliation, P&L, balance sheet.

Why: every CPA and bookkeeper already works in it.

Bonus: mileage and receipt capture from your phone.

Start here. Almost everyone.

LIGHTER

QuickBooks Solopreneur

Plan: about $20 a month. Income, expenses, mileage, a basic P&L.

Limit: no real reconciliation. Built for a sole proprietor, not an LLC with five accounts.

Fine for year one. You will outgrow it.

ALTERNATIVES

Xero · Wave

Xero: a true QuickBooks equal. Ask your CPA first.

Wave: free core bookkeeping. Fewer bank connections, fewer accountants who use it.

Both work. The habit matters more than the brand.

THE TRAP

A Spreadsheet

Cost: free, until it isn't.

Problem: nothing feeds it. Every transaction is typed by hand, so by March it's six weeks behind.

If it needs you to remember, it won't happen.

Connect all five accounts from last week plus the business card. The bank feed does the typing. You do the reading.

Five buckets. Every transaction lands in one.

INCOME

Commission income

COST OF SALES

Broker split and caps
Transaction and desk fees

E&O insurance

MARKETING

Ads and lead sources

AUTO AND TRAVEL

Mileage, not gas
76 cents a mile since July 1
Parking and tolls
Travel to conferences

PROFESSIONAL AND OFFICE

Coaching and education
Software and phone
CPA and legal
Supplies and office

10,000 business miles is roughly a $7,500 deduction. Only if the app was tracking.

NOT EXPENSES: TRANSFERS BETWEEN YOUR FIVE ACCOUNTS, AND OWNER'S PAY. IN AN LLC THAT IS AN OWNER'S DRAW, NOT A BUSINESS COST. NOT TAX ADVICE.

The P&L is three lines. Everything else is detail.

EXAMPLE · 24 CLOSINGS · JANUARY TO DECEMBER

1 · INCOME	$180,000
Broker split, caps, transaction fees, E&O	– $36,000
GROSS PROFIT	$144,000
2 · EXPENSES	– $42,000
3 · NET PROFIT	$102,000

WHERE THE $42,000 WENT

Marketing and lead sources	$18,000
Auto, at the mileage rate	$7,000
Coaching and education	$6,000
MLS, board, license dues	$4,500
Software and phone	$4,000
Office, CPA, everything else	$2,500

NET PROFIT IS WHAT YOU PAY TAX ON.
IT IS ALSO THE WEEK 1 S-CORP NUMBER.

Read it top to bottom, once a month. Then compare it to the same month last year.

Three reports. Each one answers one question.

REPORT 1 · MONTHLY

Profit and Loss

Answers: did the business make money, and where did it go?

Read it: this month, year to date, and against last year.

Watch: any category that grew faster than income.

One click in QuickBooks.

REPORT 2 · QUARTERLY

Cost Per Closing

Answers: what does it cost me to get paid once?

Math: everything you spent, divided by closings. Our example: $78,000 over 24 closings is $3,250.

Watch: run it by lead source and the bad ones show up fast.

The most useful number an agent can own.

REPORT 3 · ALLOCATION DAY

Cash By Account

Answers: is Profit First holding?

Read it: the five balances, side by side. Profit growing, Tax covering the next estimate, OpEx not running dry.

Watch: any transfer out of Tax or Profit that wasn't planned.

Thirty seconds, twice a month.

A balance sheet matters once you have an S corp, debt, or a partner. Until then, these three run the business.

The monthly close, in forty-five minutes.

EVERY WEEK

Ten minutes in the app. Categorize what the bank feed pulled in. Snap the receipts.

EVERY QUARTER

Pay the estimate out of the Tax account: April 15, June 15, September 15, January 15.

EVERY JANUARY

Send your CPA a clean P&L instead of a shoebox. Cheaper return, more deductions.

Now the numbers start talking back.

- 1 $102,000 net profit. That's the Week 1 band where the S-corp election gets modeled. Now your CPA has a real number to model.
- 2 $42,000 of $144,000 is 29% in expenses. The Week 2 target was 25%. There's $6,000 of profit hiding in that gap.
- 3 $3,250 per closing. A lead source that costs $6,000 a deal is losing to your sphere. Cut it or fix it.

None of those decisions exist without the books.

READ THIS ONE OUT LOUD

A bookkeeper categorizes. A CPA files. You read.

This is coaching, not tax advice. What counts as deductible, how to handle a home office or a vehicle, and how much to pay each quarter are your CPA's calls. Your job is to hand them clean books.

The one question to bring them: "Here is my P&L. What am I missing, and what should my quarterly estimates be?"

BY NEXT WEDNESDAY • SEP 30

Every account connected. One P&L printed.

Connect all five accounts and the business card to your bookkeeping tool.
Categorize August. Run the August P&L and bring your cost per closing to next week's call.

Then put forty-five minutes on the calendar for the first week of every month.
That appointment is the whole system.

The Foundations Scorecard. Three boxes. Check yours.
