What's moving in AI.

AI NEWS

82% of agents use AI. Only 17% feel it.

RPR's new 2026 survey, per NAR: 82% of agents now use AI, mostly for writing and marketing copy. But only 17% report a significantly positive impact on their business. Adoption is everywhere. Impact is rare.

WHY THIS MATTERS

For this room. For this community.

Writing with AI is the 82% of agents who use AI. But only 17% report a significantly positive impact on their business.

This week we work the I: your Zillow.

The profile you forgot is talking to AI.

Zillow is now wired directly into ChatGPT — and your profile is one of the highest-authority public pages about you on the internet. AI cross-reads it to decide who to name. Whatever it says today is the story AI tells today.

THE STALE PROFILE

"Dedicated agent serving buyers and sellers. Contact me anytime!" Last review: 2022.

RESULT · AI READS NOTHING SPECIFIC AND NAMES SOMEONE ELSE.

THE INDEXED PROFILE · THE WINNER

Bio opens with her exact Claim. Name, brokerage, and phone match everywhere. A review from last month naming her niche.

RESULT · A CLEAN, SPECIFIC SIGNAL AI CAN QUOTE WITH CONFIDENCE.

Same agent either way. The indexed profile hands AI fresh, specific, matching words — the stale one hands it doubt. That is the whole game today.

The five signals of an indexed profile.

"Indexed" means your Zillow profile is claimed, current, and telling AI a clear, consistent story. These are the five signals AI actually reads — not one of them is optional.

THE 5 SIGNALS

- Claimed & complete — you own it: headshot, markets, license.
- Bio opens with your Claim — your positioning statement, verbatim.
- NAP matches everywhere — name, brokerage, phone identical across the web.
- Specialties + ZIPs = your niche — the markets and work you actually want.
- Past sales imported — recent, mapped, proving where you close.

THE LITMUS TEST

- Would ChatGPT read this and describe you the way you'd describe yourself?
- Does every line agree with your Google and website — word for word?
- Is the newest thing on it from this quarter, not two years ago?

THE ONE MOST AGENTS MISS

NAP consistency. Bio and reviews get all the attention — but a name or phone that's formatted three different ways across the web quietly tells AI it can't trust any of them. That's next.

Same name. Same everywhere.

AI builds its picture of you by cross-referencing every profile it can find. When your Name, brokerage, and Phone match exactly, it cites you with confidence. When they conflict, it hedges — or names the agent whose data is clean.

NAME

SURFACE: "Kayla Smith" here, "Kayla R. Smith" there, "Team Kayla" somewhere else.

REAL → Kayla Smith — the exact same name on every single profile.

BROKERAGE

SURFACE: Current brokerage on Zillow, but the brokerage you left last year still on Realtor.com.

REAL → One brokerage name, spelled and formatted identically, everywhere.

PHONE

SURFACE: (612) 555-0143 · 612.555.0143 · 612-555-0143

REAL → One number, one format — pick it once and never deviate.

WHY IT'S THE MAKE-OR-BREAK

This is a 15-minute fix and the highest-leverage thing you'll do today. Matching NAP is the difference between AI saying "call Kayla Smith" and AI saying "here are a few agents you could try."

Kayla's Zillow.

Kayla locked her Claim last week. Here is her whole profile lined up — every surface telling AI the exact same story.

Her bio now opens: "I help north-metro empty-nesters sell the family home for top dollar and land in the right next chapter, without getting stuck between two homes, with my Bridge Plan."

THE BIO

Opens with her Claim

Word for word — the same sentence she read to the room last week. No "dedicated agent serving all your needs."

THE NAP

Kayla Smith · same brokerage · one phone

Identical on Zillow, Google, and her site. AI sees three sources agree and treats her as one trusted entity.

THIS WEEK'S MOVES

TEACHING 5 OF 6

Claim it. Clean it. Review it.

Three moves this week, in order. Thirty minutes total. This is the weekly CITED rhythm we will run on every profile.

DO THIS WEEK · THE CLICK-PATH

- Claim — Zillow.com → Join → check "I am a landlord or industry professional" → Agent Hub → Profile.
- Clean — paste your Claim as the bio opener, fix your NAP, set specialties + service ZIPs, add past sales.
- Review — Agent Hub → Request a Review (up to 50 emails/day). Ask one client today.

THE REVIEW ASK (COPY THIS)

- "(Tell them how great it was to work together and name something special about the transaction.) It would mean a lot and play a big part in helping me grow my business if you'd leave me a 5-star review, if you feel I deserve it. It helps most if you mention what I helped you with specifically, like the downsizing plan. (Thank them.)"
- Just send it to one person today. Start the habit.
- Post the link in the community when it lands.

WHY THE REVIEW MATTERS

AI reads reviews for proof your Claim is true. One fresh, specific review that names your niche does more than ten old generic ones.

Your Zillow, indexed.

Before next Wednesday your Zillow should be claimed, your bio should open with your Claim, your NAP should match everywhere, and one review ask should be out the door.

Checklist: [profile claimed] · [bio = your Claim] · [NAP matches] · [review ask sent]

DO THIS TODAY

Log in, paste your Claim into the bio, and send one review ask. Drop a screenshot into the community. Next Wednesday: Realtor.com. Week 3: Trust.

— THE CITED SERIES • WEEK 3 OF 5 —

Build Trust.

Wed Jul 15 • 10 AM CT. Your Realtor.com profile is the cross-check AI runs on your credibility. We claim it, mirror your Claim, and pull a fresh review. Bring your Zillow win.
