WIN THE DAY · LAST 7 DAYS · WIN = EVERY TOUCH DONE THAT DAY

Days Won.

Touches build the streak. Finishing the list wins the day.

*Clear is kind.
Unclear is unkind.*

BRENÉ BROWN

If I asked your last ten clients what you do, would they all say the same thing?

"She sells houses" is not the answer you want.

POSITIONING

THE POSITIONING SERIES

Week 1 of 3 · Define Your Niche. One person. One problem. One named Mechanism for solving it.

Three weeks that change how you show up.

EACH WEEK BUILDS ON THE LAST · BRING YOUR HOMEWORK

Everything we build after this, the videos, the profiles, the follow-up, rests on the Niche you commit to today.

Generalists are invisible. Specialists get chosen.

- 1 Referrals need a sentence. Your sphere can't send you business if they can't say who you're for.
- 2 AI recommends specialists. ChatGPT, Zillow, and Realtor.com match a buyer's question to an agent's clear lane. "Sells houses" matches nothing.
- 3 Your marketing engine needs one message. One person, one problem, said the same way everywhere. Without it, every video and every profile says something different.

A clear niche gets you referred, found, and remembered.

BEFORE THE FRAMEWORK

Where your Niche lives.

Stay in one circle and you're a generalist, a hobbyist, or a missionary. Land in the middle and you're a magnet.

AGENT A

- "I help people buy and sell homes in the Twin Cities."
- Generic. Forgettable. Sounds like every other agent in the room.
- When a friend loses three offers in a row, nobody thinks of her.

AGENT B · THE WINNER

- "I help first-time buyers in the north metro win bidding wars without overpaying, using a pre-offer strategy session most agents skip."
- A person. A problem. A named process.
- The buyer who just lost three offers knows exactly who to call.

She picked a lane, named a problem, and owned a process. That is the whole game today.

Meet Kayla, the Downsizing Specialist.

A Twin Cities agent who picked a lane. Watch what happens when you fill in the 3 P's for one real human.

01 - PERSON

Empty-nesters, 60 to 75, north metro.

Ready to sell the family home and move into something smaller and simpler.

The kids are out. The house is too big. The lawn won.

02 · PROBLEM

Stuck between selling and being homeless.

Overwhelmed by thirty years of stuff. Emotionally attached to the house.

Terrified of selling before they have somewhere to land.

03 · PROCESS

The "Downsize Without the Dread" system.

A guided path that handles the sale, the timing, and the move.

They never feel rushed or stuck between two homes.

Now every empty-nester in her sphere knows exactly what Kayla does. And so does the AI.

Pick one human.

Don't describe a demographic. Describe a person you could pick out of a crowd. The more specific, the more magnetic.

ASK YOURSELF

- Which clients do you genuinely enjoy working with the most?
- Which clients do you get the best results for?
- Which are easiest to serve and easiest to sell to?
- What do those people have in common? Life stage, situation, neighborhood, mindset.

WHAT "SPECIFIC" LOOKS LIKE

- Move-up buyers with young kids in top-rated school districts.
- Divorcing couples who need to sell quickly, fairly, with little conflict.
- Out-of-state investors buying their first rental in my market.
- Relocating tech professionals on a 30-day timeline, buying sight unseen.

Pick one person. The more specific, the more magnetic.

Find the real one.

People don't buy real estate services. They buy the solution to the problem keeping them up at night. Name the emotional one underneath the logistics.

WHO	WHAT THEY SAY	WHAT KEEPS THEM UP AT NIGHT
First-time buyer	"I need to find a house."	"I keep losing to cash offers and I'm scared I'll never get out of renting."
Move-up seller	"I need to sell my house."	"I can't buy the next one until mine sells, but I can't sell until I know where we're going. I'm stuck."
Investor	"I want a rental."	"I'm afraid I'll buy in the wrong area and lose money on a bad tenant or a money pit."

Name the emotional problem underneath the logistics.

Name your Mechanism.

The two to four steps you walk every client through, then a name you own. It doesn't have to be complicated. It has to be clear and yours.

ASK YOURSELF

- Why is your Mechanism better than the competition or their other options?
- What are the two to four steps or pillars you walk every client through?
- If you gave your process a name, what would you call it?

NAMED PROCESS EXAMPLES

- The Offer-Ready Method. Fully pre-underwritten and strategy-mapped before we tour a single home.
- The Sell-and-Land Plan. Your next home and your sale timing lined up together, so you're never stuck between two houses.
- The 9-Point Top-Dollar Prep. A fixed checklist we run on every home before it hits the market.

Don't get stuck here. A working name is enough today. You'll sharpen it in Week 3, Mechanism.

Your one-paragraph positioning statement.

Fill in the blanks with what you locked today. This is the thing you say at a listing appointment, on a podcast, or to your sphere, and it lands every time.

I HELP your person

ACHIEVE the outcome they want

WITHOUT the thing they dread.

UNLIKE the usual approach that fails them,

MY named process

MEANS THEY FINALLY get the dream outcome.

Kayla's: "I help north-metro empty-nesters move into something simpler without ever being stuck between two homes."

BY NEXT WEDNESDAY • OCT 7

Lock your Person, Problem, and Process. Post the statement.

Fill in the 3 P's before you close your laptop tonight. Then write your one-paragraph positioning statement and bring it next Wednesday.

Next week we wrap that Niche in an Offer: Promise, Container, Guarantee, Pillars. No Niche, no Offer.

THE POSITIONING SERIES · WEEK 2 OF 3

Craft Your Offer.

Wed Oct 7 · 10 AM CT. We take your locked Niche and wrap it in a Promise, Container, Guarantee, and Pillars. Bring your Week 1 homework.

Workshop.

Niche Hot Seat · three agents, three P's each, the room sharpens them live
